The Fosdick House was built by William Green in 1816. It took two years to build it. Early American style of solid stone walls. Stone quarried by William Green. Walnut and white pine finish. Interior partition 2" (2" x 6" studs). Split boards nailed on these and plastered against casings and base which were nailed to studs.

House stands 200 feet back from Old Erie Canal, and is in fair condition. Ceiling 8' 0". Heated by fireplaces.

Graves of Mr. Green and Mr. Fosdick are near present house.
